Voting in General Election on Thursday Last Forces Former Farmer Government Completely Out of Office. Record Voting Places Entirely New Party in Provincial Control. Former Premier and His Ministry All Discredited. New "Social Credit League" Party Gets Overwhelming Majority.

ALBERTA STANDS ALONE IN PROVINCIAL POLICIES

The glorious sunshine and fine weather of Thursday last, was at least one factor in getting out the truly record vote which was polled here in the provincial elections, with the result which finally placed Mr. Wm. Massey, of Irma, at the head of the voting in the Wainwright constituency to represent the division in the next legislature as the representative of the Social Credit party which carried the province from north to south and from east to west in no certain a manner that in very many instances the one hundred dollars candidates' deposits went to swell the coffers of the general revenue.

Starting early in the day the several polls of this division were kept real busy until the close of the voting, and it was only a short time before it could be plainly seen that the change to a new party entirely had been decided upon by the electorate. At quite a number of the polls in this district, one, and in some cases, two of the candidates did not poll even one vote, while in almost every instance the successful Social Credit candidate had a plurality of the ballots, and finally it was shown on the first count by the totals from the forty-seven deputy returning officers, that Mr. Massey had been elected to the Wainwright seat by a majority of 1431 over Mr. Peter Milne (representing the Liberal vote), while Dr. H. L. Coursier (U.F.A.-C.C.F.) and Mr. R. D. Smallwood (C.N.S.) both lost their deposits.

The election held on June 18th, 1930, Mr. J. R. Love received the choice of the electors here by an ultimate majority of 310 votes after the addition of 125 second choice votes to make the quota, his full vote being 1564 which gave him the seat over Mr. Pitman who only totalled 1254.

Change In Train Times Next Week

Attention is drawn to the following changes in train times at Wainwright commencing next week:

No. 1, westbound, will arrive here at 3:05 a.m. and leave at 3:15 a.m., arriving in Edmonton at 6:20 a.m., commencing Wednesday next, Sept. 4th.

No. 2, eastbound, will leave Edmonton at 8:25 p.m. and arrive here at 11:25 p.m.; leaves at 11:35 p.m., commencing Monday night next, Sept. 2nd.

No. 3, westbound, (local) will arrive here at 3:55 p.m. and leave at 4:05 p.m., arriving in Edmonton at 8:20 p.m., commencing Monday, Sept. 2.

No change is made in the time for No. 4, eastbound, which will continue to arrive at 11:10 a.m. and leave at 11:20 a.m.

LOWER GRAIN STORAGE RATES

Something new in the history of the grain business in Western Canada developed this week when the Alberta Pool Elevators announced its intention of cutting the storage rates for grain carried in its elevators by approximately one-third effective from August 31, 1935 to August 31, 1936.

Pool Elevators will charge 145c a bushel a day for grain in store instead of 130c a bushel a day—the rate which has been prevailing for many years. The new rate will apply for grain stored in the over 435 country houses as well as in its 4 terminals at the Pacific coast.

Alberta Pool Elevators is a co-operative organization owned and operated by Alberta farmers, and that position it considers it a privilege to be instrumental in reducing costs in some measure to the grain growers in a year when crops have suffered severely from drought, hail and frost.

Looking For Trouble Showing at Elite

Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week seem romance, comedy, drama, and realism at the Elite theatre, with "Looking for Trouble" as the offering. This show covers a lot of ground but never forsakes the basic theme of central plot.

The story centers around Joe the ace trouble shooter in a metropolitan phone exchange, with his pal Casey. Romance is quickly introduced but Joe can't keep from fighting with the temperamental Ethel, who arouses his jealousy by going with Dan, her boss. By diverse means Joe unearths a plot whereby he finds that Dan is about to take $2,000,000 worth of bonds from the company.

This bit of evidence leads Joe into some very exciting times with the yeggs, but his pal Casey helps him. Dan is later found murdered and Ethel held as the main suspect, but the tireless Joe traces the real killer, gets the story from her, and thus frees Ethel.

This show arouses the attention at the beginning, holds it securely all the way through and winds up with a "Kick-off". Don't miss it!

Electors Notified of Federal Poll Booth

Mr. S. C. Heckbert, of Vermilion, Returning Officer for the Federal constituency of Battle River issued the necessary proclamation calling the election to be held on October 14th. Nomination day will be on September 30th and nominations will be received at the office of the Returning Officer from noon until two o'clock on that date.

Official copies of the voters' lists are now in the hands of the Returning Officer and only those whose names appear on the list may exercise their franchise.

Polling places will be established at approximately two hundred locations throughout the constituency which runs from the Saskatchewan border to a point a few miles west of Innisfree and from the Saskatchewan river to a line running ten miles south of Provost from the border to Silver Heights.

As soon as nominations have been received Notice of Grant of Poll will be published and placed in conspicuous places so that every elector may have an opportunity of ascertaining the poll at which he or she will vote.

Marking an innovation, each elector will this year be sent a postcard advising him of his number, name and location of his polling station and every facility is being offered electors to enable them to cast their ballot as conveniently as possible.

Hired Man Suicides After Murdering Two

The little village of Amisk, immediately south of the National Buffalo Park, was stirred to the depths just after midnight last Wednesday, when the news began to spread that three persons were dead and another wounded as the result of a double murder and suicide, committed when a demented man ran amok, murdering his recent employer and housekeeper and taking his own life.

The dead:

Sam Seright, 75, prominent farmer, murdered;

Miss Hilda Olsen, 20, housekeeper to Seright murdered;

David Larson, 40, hired man to Seright, suicide.

Wounded: Cornelius McKenzie, hired man to Seright.

"The town was roused when Cornelius McKenzie, hired man on the Seright farm, three miles north and four miles west of the village, arrived in a car with a neighbor, Magnus Johnson, a bullet wound in his left hand and told a ghastly tale of two murders.

A posse of men was quickly

Former Wain. Sergt. Dies in Edmonton

A large circle of friends and acquaintances of Sergt. Don Stewart who was in charge of the A.P.P. at Wainwright for a number of years, will regret to learn of his death which took place in Edmonton on Wednesday last. He had been a sufferer for the past two or three years. He was 59 years of age.

He is survived by his loving widow, seven sons—Keith, Walter, Fred, Kenneth, Douglas, all of Edmonton, and Hedley, of Crow's Nest, and one daughter, Thora, of Edmonton.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, interment being in the city, and Masonic brethren of the deceased taking charge of the final rites.

New Gov. Takes Over Tues. Next

At a cabinet meeting of the Alberta legislature, which was called in Edmonton on Friday last, after the party in power had been swept from office at the general election on Thursday, former Premier Reid made plans to hand over the reins of the government to Mr. Wm. Aberhart, leader of the Social Credit party at the earliest possible moment.

Although the Election Act calls for a period of ten days to elapse during which returning officers make returns, and a further ten days in which protests may be filed, the overwhelming majority piled up by Mr. Wm. Aberhart's new party is so conclusive that a caucus is being held today (Wednesday) and it is planned that on Tuesday next, Sept. 3rd, the new members of the legislature, the eighth in Alberta's history, will be declared elected and Lieut.-Governor L. Walsh will call upon the Leader of the new party, to set up his cabinet.

By that time Premier Reid and his colleagues will be ready to hand in their resignations, and be relieved from office and responsibility.

Miss Audrey Doersom, who has been visiting her cousin, the Misses Foster, in town, returned to her home in Winnipeg on Tuesday.

Miss Mabel Kots, of Viking, is here on a visit to Miss V. Taylor.

SYMPTOMS

A symptom might be defined as any evidence of disease or abnormal state of the mind or body. Symptoms may be pain, or when present the patient is conscious, a chief subjective symptom. Symptoms which are discovered on medical examination are known as objective symptoms.

Symptoms are grouped under two headings. Local symptoms are the changes which occur in one organ or area where the disease localizes or focuses its attack. Constitutional symptoms arise out of the effect of the disease upon the body as a whole. The body works as a unit so disease of any part brings about general. The local symptoms may dominate, but there are always constitutional or general symptoms.

If persons themselves feel anything in the lungs they are as a rule, giving rise to a constitutional symptom, such as cough, asthma, pain and sometimes blood in the sputum. These symptoms all arise from the activities of the general which are attacking and destroying the lung tissue.

Disease gives rise to poisons, and in addition, they may destroy normal tissue which, when destroyed, new treatment will take a long time. It is the earliest suggestion of fatigue, persistent coughs, et cetera, which must be heeded, if tuberculosis is to be found early.

Pattern 3508. You will look cool and comfortable, slender and chic whatever your activity or your lack of activity in the clever frock sketched.

The larger woman goes in for dark but thin material in making her summer frock, such as dark blue dotted Swiss. And in the fashion of the hour she reverses her colors for the jabot and cuffs. (See sketch.)

The styling of this frock is truly ideal for the larger figure. The soft reversers are held in place by the cleverly shaped center section of the waist, which seems to button up over the revers. This line is repeated in the front panel of the skirt which rounds up over the hips making a very slenderizing line.

WINTER CARE OF FALL PIGS

It has been found, at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Saskatchewan, that pigs farrowed in August and allowed to run outside until cold weather, will usually go through the winter without crippling. While the pigs farrowed at the same time, and confined to buildings, became crippled early in the winter. During the winter of 1934-35, August farrowed pigs, which have been denied direct sunlight, were fed alfalfa meal at the rate of 10 per cent of the chop mixture, another lot received one ounce cod liver oil per pig daily in the chop, while a third lot was used for a check by feeding the same ration without either supplement.

At the end of 61 days, the check lot was badly crippled and had gained only 0.11 of a pound per pig per day. The lot getting alfalfa meal gained 0.69 of a pound per pig daily and the cod liver oil lot made a daily gain of one pound per pig. After the close of the trial, the crippled pigs, which had received no supplement, were fed one ounce of cod liver oil per pig daily, with the result that the crippled condition disappeared and during the first thirty days the average gain per pig was thirty-four pounds. In a final test, at the Scott Station, pork from the cod liver oil lots has been found to taste of the oil unless about six weeks have elapsed from the time of discontinuing the oil until the pigs were killed for pork. However, if the oil is fed during the early part of the feeding period, it is not necessary during the final six weeks before reaching market weight.

Alfalfa hay or meal has the advantage of leaving no objectionable flavor in the pork and may be fed until the pigs are ready for market, but in the test, did not produce as high a gain as cod liver oil by 0.31 of a pound per pig daily.

The cost of alfalfa meal used was $2.45 per hundred pounds and cod liver oil was $1 per pound. Pichard oil in previous tests, and found to be equally effective and it usually sells slightly cheaper.

OUR EDIBLE MUSHROOMS

Many different kinds of edible mushrooms are found in Canada, together with a great number of worthless ones and a few deadly poisonous toadstools. It is impossible for the average person to learn to know them all, but it is possible to learn to recognize the best edible species and the harmful and deadly poisonous kinds. It is no more difficult than learning the different kinds of flowers in a garden, although it is much more difficult to get the information. The best source of information in Canada is the recently published book from the Division of Botany, "Mushrooms, and Toadstools," which may be obtained from the King's Printer, Ottawa. Another is to get a volume which is a guide of mushrooms to point out the different kinds, or information can be obtained from the Dominion Land Office of Plant Pathology in different provinces.

The different kinds of edible mushrooms are so numerous that it is not possible to mention more than a few favorites. The best known are the field mushroom and its large cousin, the horse mushroom, both of which are "pink" underneath and grow in the open fields. If these are the only mushrooms known by a person, they should not be collected from the edges of woods or near trees. The fairy ring mushroom is found on lawns during the summer and the shaggy mane, on lawns in the fall. The smooth leptofole grows in cultivated fields and orchards, looks like a mushroom on top but is white underneath, and resembles the death angel. In the spruce and fir woods, the yellow chanterelle and the edible boletus are found throughout the summer. Each kind has to be known and distinguished from some worthless or harmful species that resembles it in some respect.

In gathering mushrooms to eat, the great danger is in picking a deadly toadstool. They are all too common and very few people know them well. The commonest deadly species is the fly agaric, which is so named because it can be used as a fly poison. The most dangerous kind is the death angel, so named because of its stately appearance and pure white color. No person should ever gather edible mushrooms in the woods without knowing the species for there is no known antidote for its slow-acting poison.

FEDERAL PURCHASE POLICY

To encourage the winter feeding of young cattle and lambs in those districts of Canada where feed is plentiful, the Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, has announced the renewal of the federal purchase policy which was in effect in 1934. The policy is effective from August 1 to December 31, 1935, and under its terms one-way transportation and reasonable travelling expenses will be allowed to a farmer in any part of Canada purchasing one or more carloads of young feeder cattle or feeder lambs according to the conditions as laid down by the Live Stock Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

In Eastern Canada, information, expense forms and so on may be obtained from the nearest Dominion Live Stock Branch representative at the stockyard visited, or from R. S. Hamer, Assistant Commissioner, Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa. In the case of British Columbia, information and the necessary documents may be had from the representative of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, 1002 Wharf Street, Victoria, B.C. In the Prairie Provinces, inquiries should be made to the representatives of the Dominion Live Stock Branch at the Live Stock Yards, St. Boniface, Manitoba; Northern Saskatchewan Co-operative Stockyards, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan; Edmonton Stockyards, Edmonton, Alberta; Southern Saskatchewan Co-operative Stockyards, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan; or Union Stockyards, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, as the case may be.

It is very important that those who desire to take advantage of this policy should familiarize themselves with the terms because the policy does not apply to shipments purchased for speculative purposes and all stockyard purchases must pass inspection as to type and quality by the Stockyards agent of the Dominion.

MOLES

The modern name for a mole is "naevus" plural "naevi." In the old days they were known as "mothers-marks" which meant just about as much as calling all painful diseases "rheumatism."

Moles are as old as the human race. Whenever a baby showed a bright-red discoloration of the skin at birth, the mother suddenly remembered her severe longing for strawberries which was ungratified. It was solemnly averred by many a mother that her child was "marked" at birth.

Moles are very common affections of the skin. Many are small and cause no trouble except disfigurement. Most of them are small. I had a friend who had a very large naevus that involved the right eye, right cheek, upper lip and ear. He consulted many physicians, most of whom were afraid of arousing a conspiracy, my friend died carrying his disfigurement.

The structure of a mole is chiefly enlarged blood-vessels. I have removed small ones by tying a fine silk thread very tightly around them at the base. The treatment is painful for a few days, but fades into moderate itching, and the mole drops off, to be heard of no more.

"Hairy moles" are prone to appear on the faces of women. Sometimes they disappear when the hair is removed by an electric needle. Pioneer mothers believed "hairy moles" were caused by the mother being frightened by a mouse or rat. I have cut away "hairy moles" with success, where there was no danger of scarring, but that is hard to do in the best treatment. The best procedure is to consult a specialist. He may suggest radium.

WILF AND TYNDALE

So the Bible passed into Latin and finally into English. There had been partial translations from the Latin from the time of the Venerable Bede and King Alfred, but the name of the great English pioneer translator is John Wiclif, who lived from 1324 to 1384.

As a translation his work was of secondary value, for he, too, used the Latin and not the original tongue; but he put the Bible into the hands of the reading public of England when it was small but potent, and made it what it is today, the Book of the common people.

One hundred and fifty years after Wiclif came William Tyndale, who undertook a translation of the New Testament from the original Greek. People were heretofore struck by the impurity of the Latin. He had to flee to Hamburg, and never again set foot on his native shore. Against fierce opposition he continued his work.

Printing had been invented and Tyndale determined to "mark every plow-boy in England knew the New Testament." His book, printed by Caxton, had to be smuggled into England and was read by stealth. With such assistance driven as the following, written by the pious Erasmus, his circulation was obstructed.

Where Scriptures saith, "No man shall layeth his hand to the plow and looketh back is fit for the kingdom of God," will not the plowman when he readeth these words be apt forthwith to cease from his plow, and then where will he be sowing and the harvest? Likewise also when as the law saith, "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump," will he not be forthwith sparing in the use of leaven, to the great injury of our health? And as also when the scripture saith, "The work of the devil is to lead the blind man by the eye of the blind," will he not be forthwith sparing in the use of leaven, to the great injury of our health? WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28th, 1935

THE NEW GOVERNMENT"Vox Populi" has been heard! and in no uncertain terms the people of Alberta at the polls on Thursday last voiced their opinion that for the present they are through with "old line parties and policies". The new government, with new ideals, new doctrines, and new leaders have been placed in power.Throughout the campaign the Social Credit party has had to face the combined opposition of all other parties, but that opposition was unavailing, and the majority piled up for the winners was a record one in the province—only three of political thought only gaining seven out of 63 seats.Pioneering in an entirely new field the new government is faced with tremendous responsibility, and the result of their efforts along these lines will be watched with interest by the whole world. On the other hand the great majority are fully convinced of success, and that when placed in power, the people of the province will enter upon an era of prosperity and security.OFFICIAL OR OFFICIALS?Figures recently given out by the Publicity Committee of the Province of Alberta tell us that over 6,500 cars containing U.S. tourists entered Alberta at the ports of Coultas and Carway during the months of May, June and July, according to customs figures. It is estimated that nearly 20,000 picnics travelled in these cars. These figures do not include cars entering Alberta through the Crow's Nest
Pass or Banff park.Alberta professes to want U.S. tourists. All Canada invites our cousins from across the line to come over and play around. American dollars are acceptable here, at pa-they took good to us. But do we "Canucks", through our officials, always conduct ourselves in such a manner as will impress these American tourists? The word "Welcome" on Canada's door is interpreted literally to mean "hospitality".In the publicity commissioner's report mentioned, reference is made to two parts of entry, Coultas and Carway. The name "Carway" reminds us of an official memorandum given to a friend of ours who was coming through from one of the Western States to spend a few weeks (also a few dollars) "neath Alberta's sunny skies. When our friend reached Car-way, he was put through the usual formalities. Being a truthful and trusting soul, he admitted that he still had the "heel of a crock" tucked away in one of his grips. His luggage was turned out pronto. Canada's grim-visaged port officers warned our cousin that he was committing a near-heinous offence. It would have been better for him never to have been born than to be out-letted of such an outrage. However, there was a convenient "way out" of the difficult situation. He could "abandon" his holdings to the port officers. By so doing, he might continue on his way without further engagement.Our lad from the States "wasn't born in the woods to be scared by an owl" as he asked for a receipt which he holds as a souvenir. The document reads:

THINK IT OVER

Your Town is no place for a man who is always waiting until tomorrow to grab the opportunity that is offered him today.The social contributions it makes in raising the standards of living and in introducing the public to new comforts and conveniences stamp newspaper advertising as one of the most essential public services of the times.The quick and straight road to greater prosperity had been blazed and citizens should take this road, sweep all obstacles aside and march on to their goal.You will find a never-ending procession of bargains for bargain hunters in the advertising columns of The Wainwright Star.Insurance is the basis of all business. No sound financial institution will advance money unless the property involved is protected by insurance. If a large fire company cannot afford to be without insurance no one else can do so. Be sure your buildings and your car are well insured. Joe Welch will see to this for you. May safe.

HEATH

A number of young people gathered at the home of Mr. D. Potvin on Wednesday afternoon to hold a shower in honor of Mrs. Morton Herbert, whose marriage took place recently. The following gifts were packed in a basket decorated with pink streamers and flowers: Mrs.
Sporritt, bath towels; Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. Day, tea set; Velma Ford, cake plate; Mr. and Mrs. L'Heureux, bath towels; Olwyn and Dallas Jones, jugs; Olive Ford, bonbon dish; Mary and Betty Wallace, butter dish; Mrs.
Herbert, sugar tongs; Mrs. C. Dixon, cup and saucer; Mrs. Patterson, cup and saucer; St. Patrick's W.A., teaspoons; Simone Belanger, cup and saucer; Bertha Bowley, jug; Violet Smith and Gladys Mockford, green glass cream and sugar and butter dish set; Misses Bernadette, Jean and Beatrice Touchette, berry set; Misses Alberta and Alma Potvin, pyrex pie plate.On Friday evening Mrs. J. Cummings entertained a number of friends in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Morton Herbert, who was married recently. The bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends and enjoyed a pleasant evening together. A delicious tea was served by Mrs. Cummings, assisted by her daughter.Mrs. Day and Beverly are leaving for their home in Brantford tertained the local bank staff at their home last Wednesday. Mr.

Chapin was presented with a bridge lamp by the local group. We wish for them many years of happy life in their new field of service.Excitement ran high here in the election campaign. To announce the winner would be state news, but who wasn't surprised, we'd like to know?Mr. H. C. Boyd returned last Friday in time to vote. He was busy in the Ponoka district assisting Mrs. W. W. Rogers to put it over the former premier.Misses J. M. and H. Challenger, are moving to Edmonton this week where they will continue their studies.We notice a large moving van located near the local bank. The furniture of our new bank manager has arrived, and that belonging to the Chapins is departing.Morris Kipling, who has been a patient in the Wainwright hospital, reached home on Sunday.Rev. and Mrs. Bainbridge visited to Wainwright on Friday.

PASSCHENDALE

Mrs. A. McKinnon of Winnipeg arrived on Tuesday to visit relatives and friends in the district.Russell McKinnon has spent the spring and summer at Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's.Miss Virginia Gray entertained friends on Tuesday afternoon. Her guests were Misses Winnie Taylor, Jean Darrow of Edmonton, Mildred
Johnson, Doris Johnson and Martha Johnson.Miss Lily Simpson spent the week end at her home here.

FOUR DAY BOAT

TRIP BY C.N.R.

VANCOUVER, B.C.—Rivalling the far-famed scenery of Alaska, new cruise waters opened to regular tourist travel by the Canadian National Steamships on August 23 when the 7,000-ton liner, S.S. Prince Robert, will commence a four-day cruise to Gardner Canal and Douglas Channel, great British Columbia sea inlets that have become known as "the fjords of the hanging valleys."Coinciding with the operation of low rate excursions to the Pacific Coast from Edmonton, the cruise is designed to show domestic tourists the glories of their own coast. Only in Norway and sections of the South American coast is the Canadian west scenery rivalled. S.S. Prince Robert is the first liner to explore Gardner Canal and Douglas Channel, which reach into the heart of the tremendous coast range of mountains, and her sailing has been specially designed as an attraction for Alberta visitors to the Pacific Coast.The Atlas Lumber Co. have just unloaded several cars of lumber for granaries, and all threatening requirements. Get our prices. Joe Welch, agent.After spending a short holiday with Miss P. Fraser, Miss D. Sisk would have returned to her home at Saskatoon, where she will fill a place in the play-off games of the Nutan girls' athletic club softball team.

HIBED MAN SUICIDES

AFTER MURDERING TWO
with the rifle, the brothers fled and Larson fired through a closed bedroom door, wounding Cornelius in the left hand.It is not probable that he knew that his shot through the door had hit one of them, but that both men had escaped and would raise the alarm.This, however, did not prevent him venting his homicidal passion on the helpless girl. Miss Olsen, too, appears to have been wakened and out of bed before he reached her room, as she was found in a position indicating she had tried to use the dresser as a shield.The McKenzies, who had jumped through an open bedroom window, looked different routes. Dan calling on David Gibson for help and Cornelius reaching the home of Magnus Johnson, who rushed him to A. A. Clark in his car.R.C.M.P. constables J. Cotterell of Hardisty and J. Murray of Provost, and Mrs. C. A. McBride of Hardisty and F. W. Jones of Hughenden were called.Shortly after the posse arrived there was the sound of a shot from the house, believed to be the shot with which Larson ended his life.
It is established that the maniac was doing further harm.He lay on his back in a pool of blood on the floor, a rifle between his hands. He had apparently cut his throat in the pantry and then come to the kitchen for his rifle with which he ended his life.It is established that the maniac was doing further harm.Larson had lived with Seiright for seven years and had latterly rented the farm from him.Seiright, owner of the farm, was one of the most prosperous farmers in the district, having come to live 22 years ago.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

That the ever increasing demand for quality goods is due to the continuous advertising they get.Continuous advertising has improved the public with a desire to buy quality goods.Advertised goods have inspired the public with confidence in them.

Confidence brings increased sales.

It is the advertiser who has faith enough to keep advertising that really learns what advertising can accomplish.The printed page is a medium of proved advertising power.It has been proved by bringing profitable results.Newspaper advertising keeps business moving smoothly along.

OR VISITING

FOUR PROVINCES

CALGARY—An appeal from Mr.
William Aberhart, Alberta Social Credit League leader, for a united front of Social Credit in the house of commons from the Pacific coast to the Great Lakes is before the people of western Canada.He wants a solid phalanx of members from the four western provinces in Ottawa so that it could support the Alberta provincial government in its efforts to effect Social Credit theories. Mr. Aberhart said in an address here.Cautioning his followers not to run ahead and mix things up," the Calgary evangelist urged constituency associations of Alberta not to nominate candidates for the dominion election until after the caucus of Social Credit provincial candidates here on Wednesday.

ABSENTEE VOTES INTRODUCED

Absentee voting will be introduced for the first time in Dominion elections at the coming general election and may delay the completion of returns in constituencies where numerous voters are away from home.The privilege of voting away from home is extended to miners, sailors, fishermen and lumbermen only.
Those who, in the normal course of their occupation, are away from home on election day may register their votes at polling station nearest to their place of work, providing it is in the same province.The absentee voter must mark a special ballot which is placed in an envelope and sent to the returning officer of his own constituency. This latter cannot complete his final count of ballots until all the absentee votes cast in other constituencies have reached them.Should the contest be close and should there be several hundred absentee votes, as is possible in some constituencies where the occupations of mining, fishing, shipping and lumbering are widely followed, the result of the election might not be definitely determined for a week or so after the day, although the speedy unofficial count will be made possibly by telegraphing the number of absentee votes cast for each candidate from the place of polling to the constituency of the voter.New Government to Operate Own PressActing upon recommendation in the report which Major Douglas, British economist, made to the provincial government, the new Social Credit government intends to operate its own radio and newspaper facilities, according to reports.It is claimed that the dome of the legislative buildings will be used for radio broadcasting, while plans also are being made to operate a daily newspaper. Whether one now in operation would be taken over is not definitely known.Major Douglas pointed out in his report to the government that one of the first essentials was to educate the people in regard to a Social Credit plan by circulating of propaganda by means of radio and press facilities.A Scotman left a tip for a waitress—had been eating aspargus.Alimony is a man's cash surrender

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

20 YEARS AGO

Messrs. May and Deane, barristers of Lacombe, have now opened up business in town in the premises formerly occupied by Mr. H. V. Fieldhouse. We bid them welcome.

Mrs. W. Peterson, who for the past two years has been residing with relatives in Nappa, California, has returned to Wainwright to live.

An enjoyable banquet was served under the auspices of the local O.E.S. in honor of the visit of the Grand Worthy Matron of Alberta in the person of Mrs. Lottie Kenny, who was a former resident.

The Wainwright girl guides have certainly done their bit towards aiding the allies' cause in the Great War. They are now to be responsible for the upkeep of a cot in the Canadian hospital at Shorncliffe, England.

Mrs. A. MacMillan left on Saturday for a holiday with friends and relatives in California and other points.

15 YEARS AGO

After a prolonged holiday at the coast Mrs. Frank Mott has now returned home.

The Ladies of the W.I. were very successful in collecting a nice sum of money to be used in improving the cemetery. A well will be dug and pump installed.

Mrs. A. G. Smith has arrived home again, following her visit to Quebec and other eastern points.

Mrs. J. Telford is entertaining guests this week in the persons of Mrs. Frank of Kinella and Mrs. Featherstone of Winnipeg.

We are pleased to note that Mr. L. Wilcox is now progressing nicely after his recent relapse at the Royal Alexandra hospital in Edmonton.

Mr. D. O. Brown left last week for a holiday tour, taking in Edmonton, Vancouver, Calgary and other points.

Mr. R. H. Wiley, a former resident of Wainwright, arrived here from Chateaugay, N.Y., to enjoy a visit with his brother for a week or so.

The Rosedale Ladies Aid held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Roach on Tuesday last. It was at this meeting that the ladies had to say "good-bye" to Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge. Mr. Bainbridge has been our minister for several years and while here, both he and Mrs. Bainbridge have made a number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge will be missed by everyone who knew them, and the best wishes of all these friends go with Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge to their new home in Donalda.

Mrs. Frank Redmond, U.F.W.A. director for Battle River, addressed a meeting at Rosedale United Church on Sunday.

Word was received this week of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. James Redmond, in the University hospital on August 22. Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds had as their guests on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Miss Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Don Pawsey, Messrs. Percy Keating, Harold Richards and Mrs. Ben Wheeler.

SYDENHAM

The binder is at work on most of the farms in this district. Crops are much lighter, being affected by hail and frost.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Carl and Pauline spent Sunday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Seabrook.

The Gospel meeting held at the school house last Sunday, was well attended, forty-four being present. There will be a service held each Sunday at 2:30.

Mrs. R. Goodkey and children spent Tuesday afternoon visiting with Mrs. F. Seabrook.

Miss Pauline R. spent Tuesday afternoon visiting with Mrs. G. Carl.

The barn at the school house has been much improved this week, by receiving a coat of paint.

Miss June Seabrook was a supper guest on Tuesday at the home of Miss Janet Crofton.

The meetings held in Wainwright on Monday and Wednesday were well attended by the people of this district.

Mr. L. Alexander is spending a few days at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. Dixon.

Mr. Fleming of Vancouver is spending a holiday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. Alexander.

Mrs. O. Crofton was the guest of Mrs. A. Dupre on Thursday.

ASCOT

Misses Florence and Angelina Winter have been spending a few days with the McQuaker girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hutchinson are enjoying a visit from his mother, Mrs. Dave Hutchinson.

The DIVORCE COURT MURDER

by MILTON PROPPER

CHARLES BROTHERS

SYNOPSIS—Barbara Keith wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man, is murdered as she waits in a side room to testify in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland. She was to have testified for the husband, a friend, who was defendant in action. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case from police headquarters. His preliminary investigation disclosed that both Mr. and Mrs. Rowland had gathered evidence against the other of infidelity. The will of Mrs. Rowland's first husband directed her lawyer brother Mr. Willard, to handle the estate until she remarried when the new husband was to come into control. Detective Rankin finds motives and the evidence of guilt for the murder of Mrs. Keith, leading to the doors of virtually all of the principals involved. These principals are, the two Rowlands, Mr. Willard, Mr. Hugh Campbell, partner of Mrs. Rowland, and his underworld confederates. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Rankin was in the captain's office when Jenks returned, pride illuminating his features. Behind him came a young, thin, curly-haired chap in the uniform of a cab driver.

"Back already, Jenks?" he commented. "It isn't three hours since you left to check Mr. Keith's Washington trip; you couldn't have got very far with it."

"Far enough to prove he never boarded that twelve-twenty-five train," Jenks responded cheerfully.

"Almost the first person I questioned was this fellow, Jim Blake. He has a yellow cab at the West Philly station stand."

"His story," Jenks continued, "is that Mr. Keith no sooner quit his own machine in the station yard than he hired Blake's cab to follow him."

"The detective turned to the taxi-man. 'Is that so, Blake? How can you be certain the man was this Mr. Keith?'"

"I don't know his name," Blake replied, gaining assurance, "but he wasn't the same guy this bloke's been asking about, then he's got a double. He comes in a maroon colored Packard limo and drives by by shofers. It ain't hard to remember him; I haven't had such a fare and run up such a bill in a half a year of sleepless Sundays."

"I see," Rankin nodded. "In your own way, Blake, tell me exactly what happened. At what time did he arrive?"

"About twelve-fifteen, yesterday afternoon; and the car turned into the station driveway, right beside the cabstand. That's why I could hear everything he said. The shofers wanted to carry in his bag but he told 'im never mind and to go on, and handed it to one of the porters. He ordered the dinge to check it for 'im inside and told the check until he came back for it and he tipped 'im a buck. Then he motioned for my bus and climbed in, in a whale of a hurry."

"Well, all this didn't take as long as to tell it, yunderstand," continued the cabman. "And when he got in "The second member of the firm whom he had not yet met, descended from above. Tall and ungainly, Julian MacQuire suggested a scholar rather than a practical business man. After introductions were completed, the detective's preliminary questions disclosed that he had no special knowledge about either Mrs. Rowland's divorce or the murder itself."

Presently Rankin turned to the more pressing subject.

"I understand, Mr. MacQuire," he said, "that you had a caller yesterday afternoon named Jacques Tarleton?"

"The lawyer displayed surprise but nodded. "That's correct," he said, "and I must apologize for intruding at this time of the night. Only I need a bit of information you can supply immediately."

"Of course, if I can," Mrs. Edmond returned curiously. "What do you want to know?"

"It's about the evening you were with Mr. Rowland to Bureau. I'm told you met before you had no idea who Mortimer Keith turned up right after Mrs. Rowland interrupted you. I've come to let you reconsider that statement."

The secretary stiffened, on guard "And to be sure," she repeated, affecting perplexity. "No, it's still a puzzle to me what brought him there or where he came from."

Rankin's features set in a stern frown.

"You don't believe that yourself and you're hiding the truth," Harshness crept into his tone. "In fact, Mrs. Edmond, you kept to yourself a great deal I should have learned. For instance, that you received four thousand dollars to act as Allen Rowland's—"

He came in a maroon colored limousine driven by a shofers."

My cab, his limousine was only leaving the station yet. He says, 'I think that place was the Westview Apartments,' he added.

"In West Philly, he turns down Forty-fifth street and stops outside an apartment house; there he picks up a gent waiting for him, a tall, blond, handsome guy, like an athlete. I think the place was the Westview Apartments," he added.

Rankin nodded. "Of course," he went for Allen Rowland; he informed Jenks. I suppose then, Blake, the next destination was Chestnut Hill?"

"That's right," the shofers agreed. "It was easy followin' along there. 'ough the shofers specked some. We went to a real swanky apartment house, the Aldwich. I stayed outside the entrance and the shofers got out and walked in; and in a minute, a pretty, swell young woman joins the gent in the tonner. Then, little after two, we was all off again."

"Where to this time?" Rankin queried.

"Back to town to the Wolf Building, at Sixteenth and Market Street. My passenger didn't get out right away. He waited a couple of minutes after the lady and her escort went in before he followed them. This shofers stayed outside in the car. I got orders to wait too, but not over ten minutes; if Mr. what's-ix-name didn't show up by then, I was to leave. And he hands me a 'whoppy' big tip besides a six-dollar fare. So I hung around for almost fifteen minutes, but he never came out and that was the last I seen of 'im."

Rankin sneaked with ill concealed eagerness. "That sort of the people you were interested in appear while you were watching, Blake?"

"The taxi-man scratched his head and replaced his cap askew.

"Oh, yes, the gent the shofers first picked up come out and spoke to 'im," he replied, as if just remembering. "I guess it was 'im 'un 'un 'un orders, because he drove off as soon as he went inside again."

"Could you say what time this happened? It's important for you to be as exact as possible."

"Well, since I watched the clock all the while I waited, I can tell you pretty close," Blake returned. "My own ticker said twenty to three; and by the City Hall clock, I wasn't more than a minute or so slow."

The detective received his unexpected support of Allen Rowland's account with a grunt of satisfaction.

"Now, Jenks, with regard to this redcap at the station," he said. "How long afterward did Mr. Keith return to him for his baggage?"

"At quarter after three, Tommy," the shofers answered. "In time to catch the three-twenty train."

"And that would bring Keith into Washington about three hours later—say six-twenty," Rankin observed.

Obviously, Rankin's next step was a visit to Mr. MacQuire to learn the object of Mr. "Tarleton's" call, the name the telephone operator said Keith had given.

As it was now almost seven o'clock, the detective could no longer reach Mr. MacQuire at the Wolf Building. He obtained the lawyer's home address from a directory."

In answer to his ring, a maid opened the door. She escorted him through the sun porch into a larger living room.

Presently Rankin turned to the more pressing subject.

Presently Rankin turned to the more pressing subject.

"I understand, Mr. MacQuire," he said, "that you had a caller yesterday afternoon named Jacques Tarleton?"

said he had observed some one slightly familiar enter the office just ahead of him, who he thought was Rowland when he last saw him.

"And how did you reply to that?" Rankin asked.

"Well, I let him understand that while I, personally, had no dealing with him, Mr. Dawson was deliberating his case. Just what way, I didn't know."

"But Mr. Keith at least learned it was a divorce case that brought him there?"

The lawyer flushed uncomfortably. "He seemed familiar with his domestic troubles without my telling him; in fact, if his object was to pump me, he was very cautious. We dropped the subject and left together."

"That was about twenty-five, wasn't it, Mr. MacQuire?" the detective inquired.

"To the instant, I was due at my club, at three-thirty, and was not worried about being late for my game that toward the last I constantly watched the clock."

"At which time, Rankin reflected, the cabman Blake, had already stopped waiting for Mr. Keith and driven away."

"And what became of your visitor?"

Mr. MacQuire replied slowly, unconsciously that on his answer rated the accuracy of Rankin's deductions.

"At the lobby we said good-by and parted at the entrance of the building. 'I had to catch a train.'"

"Have you any idea in which direction Mr. Keith went?" the detective asked.

"I couldn't tell you that," Mr. MacQuire replied. "As I left, he started back into the lobby, to buy some cigars at the stand, and that was the last I saw of him."

Rankin rose with a smile of satisfaction and reached for his hat.

Rankin determined to interview the ex-secretary that very night. He lived in Logan on York Road, in a private dwelling with a brownstone front that had been remodeled into an apartment house.

Jill Edmond, though surprised at his visit, did not appear especially disturbed. She had a three-room apartment. Taking Rankin's hat she led him to a chair.

"I must apologize for intruding at this time of the night. Only I need a bit of information you can supply immediately."

"Of course, if I can," Mrs. Edmond returned curiously. "What do you want to know?"

PINEAPPLE JUICES FLAVORS SUMMER SUPPER DISHES

Hot weather calls for lighter foods but still the foods must be palatable and nourishing. Here are two excellent recipes—one hot dish and one cold—which you will do well to keep in mind for summer luncheons or suppers. Both owe much of their distinctiveness to the use of natural unseasoned Hawaiian pineapple juice; and you'll win distinction, too, by serving them.

Chicken Outlet, Hawaiian
1 No. 2½ lb. Hawaiian pineapple juice (3½ cups)
4 tablespoons, or ½ cube butter
1 cup long grain rice
1 small, or ½ large onion
½ cup grated cheese

Salt and pepper to taste
2 cups lightly packed chicken
fish or veal

Wash rice well, and add to pineapple juice, butter, seasoning and grated onion, which have been brought to a boil. Cook until soft, remove from the fire and cool, then stir in the grated cheese and chicken.

Form into cutlets, roll in cracker crumbs, then in egg yolk beaten with about 2 tablespoons of milk, and again in the cracker crumbs. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees in a frying basket until brown. Drain on brown paper and serve piping hot. Serve with a highly seasoned cream sauce into which has been beaten chopped parsley, chopped green pepper and ½ teaspoon green onion.

Pineapple-Tomato Aspic
2 cups solid pack tomatoes
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice
2 tablespoons gelatin
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1 teaspoon salt
6 cloves
½ bayleaf
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Simmer can of asparagus tips in a saucepan place the tomatoes with all of the seasonings of the water from the can, of asparagus. Simmer slowly on the fire for about 20 minutes, or until the tomatoes are soft. Then strain through a fine sieve, pressing through as much of the pulp as possible.

While the aspic is cooking, soak the gelatin in ¼ cup of the pineapple juice. Over this pour the tomato juice, which has been heated to the boiling point, and stir until dissolved. Finest individual molds in cold water, place the asparagus tips in them in regular rows, packing a little of the gelatin mixture and leave in the ice box to harden. As soon as the mixture has set, remove and add more of the gelatin until the mold is full. By adding a small quantity of gelatin mixture at a time, the design of the gelatin is kept at the bottom of the mold instead of floating on the top, which when inverted becomes the bottom of the salad.

Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise or other dressing.

Breakfast Sets the Pace
The food you give your family at breakfast will set the pace for the whole day; for we must never lose sight of the fact that a long time has elapsed since the evening meal the night before. Appetites will awaken at the sight of an icy cold half melon filled with overflowing with golden, crisp corn flakes. This is delicious eating and a dish to give the family quick energy for work or play.

Toasties Melon Cup
Chill small ripe cantaloupe. Cut in halves, allowing one half to each serving. Remove seeds. Cut thin slices from the bottom of each half so that cantaloupe will rest firmly on plate. Fill center with corn flakes. Serve with light cream and powdered sugar.

JELLIES THAT JELL

Red Raspberry and Currant Jelly
4½ cups (2½ lbs.) juice
7 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly about 1½ pounds fully ripe raspberries. Add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Crush the thoroughly 1½ quarts fully ripe raspberries. Combine fruits. Place fruits in jelly cloth or bag, and squeeze out juice. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan; mix. Bring to a boil over hot fire and at once add bottled pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Blackberry Jam
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into a large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hot fire. Stir constantly bring to a full rolling boil over hot fire. Stir constantly bring to a full rolling boil over hot fire. Stir constantly bring to a full rolling boil over hot fire.

Remove from the fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and cook slightly for just 5 minutes and cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

THE PICTURE OF BROKEN- HEARTED JOSEPHINE

on the floor, her head on her arm in a chair has gripped many hearts. Even Napoleon as he stands by the door to go seems to be touched almost to the point of reconsidering.

The depth of Josephine's disappointment will probably never be fully realized.

There is a thought in this which can be applied to some Canadian communities. Sui-cides among discouraged business men, hard-pressed by wholesalers, makes a tragic picture because their financial predicament was brought about by trusting old friends too long, who, when they got hold of some cash, spent it elsewhere.

NAPOLEON admitted before he died that his "truest friend was Josephine, his greatest error, her rejection."

Quite often now-a-days one hears people admitting that their best friend was the local merchant and one of their greatest errors was made in forsaking him to chase inferior goods at "bargain" prices here, there and elsewhere.

However, the merchants in Wainwright need not bid for sympathy. Low rents, inexpensive advertising and hard work make it possible for them on the whole, quality for quality to meet fair competition on a VALUE basis. It will pay you to read their ads in this issue of

Wainwright Star

- - The Country Weekly Newspaper - -

"What do you think of the future of country newspapers?"

This question was asked by Mr. Wright A. Patterson by a teacher of journalism in one of the western United States state universities in the course of a conversation in which the successful efforts of big city dailies and periodicals to increase circulation in rural sections was noted, and the editorial content of these publications discussed. In answer, Mr. Patterson painted a picture of the future as he sees it.

Admitting that there is a place for the small weekly newspaper—and there is, and probably nowhere more decidedly so than on the prairies of Western Canada—the important question is: How is that position to be maintained, improved, developed; and are our Western Canadian editors alive to the situation and endeavoring to meet it? If they are, they will undoubtedly receive the public support they so well deserve.

Both weekly newspaper publishers and the reading public will be interested in Mr. Patterson's word-picture as it is presented in a recent issue of The Publishers' Auxiliary. While a bit too lengthy for complete reproduction in this column, excerpts may be given:

"There has been, within the last quarter of a century, a radical change in the people of the rural communities—the people of the towns and on the farms. Up to a quarter of a century ago, these communities were self-centred. The people seldom got beyond their local market place. It was a day's task for the farmer and his family to get as far away from home as the nearest town, possibly not more than three or four miles away. The only form of conveyance was the farm wagon, or the horse and buggy. The roads were narrow stretches of dirt that were, during portions of the year practically impassable. From one year to another the vast majority of the rural people—the people of the towns and farmers—did not get beyond their municipal limits. It was the exceptional rural family whose children went away to school. The students at universities were largely from the cities and the number attending universities was small as compared to the present time."

"Under such conditions the horizon of the rural family was extremely limited. Its members had practically no contact with the outside world and quite naturally the interests of these rural people centred about themselves and their neighbors."

"The country newspaper that catered to that local interest, that recorded the events in which the people of each community played a part, was satisfactory to the people of these communities. To this local news coverage, many editors added some general news and entertainment material and made for that time a satisfying newspaper that met very rural reader-demand."

"Today conditions are radically different. The automobile and good roads have made travel possible. The day's trip now is to the city anywhere from 50 to 300 miles distant from the rural home. The World War took tens of thousands of the boys of the farm into distant training camps and associated them with boys from every section of the nation, and with every class. It sent them across the ocean into far distant lands. It widened their horizon to include practically the entire world and all classes of people and all forms of activities. It gave them a new outlook and new interests. That was 18 and 20 years ago. The farm and town boys of the World War are now men, the heads of families, of the rural communities of these days."

"The radio has brought the world to the rural community fireside. It has widened the view of the people of these communities until it includes all Canada, the United States, England, France, Japan, Australia and every known point in the world."

"Go to the universities today and a large percentage of the students are from the towns and farms. These young people are acquiring for themselves and taking back to the rural homes from which they come, an increased interest in national and world affairs, in history in the making, the arts and sciences and in literature."

"As a class the rural audience of today is a more intelligent audience than that of the city. The people of the towns and farms have today wider interest than the average individual of the city. They are in no sense provincial."

"It is such an audience the country newspaper of today and tomorrow must appeal to if it is to live. It must bring to them intelligent interpretations of what is happening throughout the world because it is today their world, and they know that its happenings may directly concern themselves. The cotton farmers of the Southern States know that happenings in far-away Japan may make or break the price they get for their cotton. They know that should war come between Italy and Ethiopia, it might affect the regulation of the waters of the Blue Nile and so affect the cotton crop of the Egyptian Sudan and create a larger demand and higher price for American cotton their cotton. The wheat farmers of Western Canada know that drought in Russia, in Argentina, in Australia, in France or many other sections of the world certainly raise the price they would get for their product."

"The people of the towns and farms insist upon keeping in touch with those national and world affairs that have a direct bearing on their lives. They expect the newspaper they buy to bring to them interpretations of such happenings. They do not want rumors and surmises, but they do want statements of fact and what such facts mean. They will buy the newspaper that gives them such information."

"Weekly newspaper editors are awakening to these new conditions. They are realizing that it is quality got quantity of reading matter that is demanded, and that the demand can be met in the limited space of eight to 10 or 12-page papers, giving them room to cover the community happenings and with that interpretations of events in the nation and the world, and a reasonable amount of entertainment."

For the paper that does these things there is a future. Such a paper will cover all of the today's national and world interests of its readers and will make itself so meet the newspapers needs as to leave no necessary place for a paper from the outside. For such a paper there is a future, greater than that of the past, and the majority of the editors of country newspapers are awake to these things. The small minority that are not, or do not awaken will, in time, pass out of the picture. Ex-

Mr. and Mrs. H. Crampton, and Marjorie, are away for their annual vacation with friends at Vancouver, B.C.

During the holidays of Mr. Cal Mackenzie, Mr. R. O. Edgar, of Vancouver is in charge of the telegraph office at the depot.

Mrs. A. Challenger is the lucky winner of the handsome cushion which was drawn for on Saturday last at the Sowers store in town.

Mr. Tom Lissimore left on Friday's train for the big railroaders' annual convention which is being held in Montreal during the next ten days. He is representing the locals in this district.

On Tuesday morning next, sharp at nine a.m. the principal and teachers of all the schools in town will be on hand to welcome the youngsters with their shining faces and their desire (?) for a real winter's work at their studies.

The Wainwright Midgits beat the Viking youngsters in a hard fought baseball game last week by a score of 8-7.

The Annual conference of the Women's Institute in this district is being held at the Masonic hall on Thursday when a welcome is extended to all ladies to be present.

A real big crowd of local folk took advantage of the excursion fares to the coast on the train which left here on Thursday morning last.

Mrs. J. Telford is entertaining guests in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. R. Telford, Jack's brother, who drove west from Orillia, Ont., to pay the visit.

Quite a number of the townfolk have been enjoying up their citizen bets during the week-end; although we learned of one bet of which the winner backed down (!)
Wonder why?

Among the scholars who should be added to the passes at the Separate School are Leonard Leroux, Alma Dupuis, Lomer Bissan and Leo Dupuis (recommended).

Owing to Monday next being Labor Day and a statutory holiday, the stores in town will be closed.
Remember your shopping on Saturday next.

A packed theatre listened to the speakers on Wednesday last when Mr. G. G. McGeer was the principal attraction. During the evening Miss Ellen Jardine, of Biggar, sang a couple of songs very effectively, and orchestra music entertained the gathering.

BLIND INSTITUTE AT NATIONAL EXHIBITION

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is arranging to have an even more comprehensive exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition than that which attracted so much public interest last year. The services rendered by the Institute to its blind clients are without charge and are made possible through the co-operation of the public.

Possibly a number of our readers will attend this year's Exhibition in Toronto, and they will undoubtedly find the exhibit of the Institute one of the most interesting displays on the ground. The officials of the Institute will be pleased to make your acquaintance, and give every facility for inspecting the various features of this most interesting exhibit.
